the 1990s, the number of people with a diagnosis of schizophrenia has increased in the United Kingdom (Meltzer 1997). The prevalence of schizophrenia in the United Kingdom is estimated to be 1.2% (Meltzer 1997).

There is a growing awareness of the need to improve the lives of people with mental health problems. The United Kingdom has a long history of institutional care, but in the 1990s there has been a move towards community care. The Mental Health Act 1983 (MHA) was amended in 1995 to give more power to local authorities to provide community care services. The MHA 1995 also introduced the concept of 'community care orders' which allow people with mental health problems to live in the community rather than in a hospital. The MHA 1995 also introduced the concept of 'community treatment orders' which allow people with mental health problems to live in the community rather than in a hospital.
